John 20:1-18

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Where am I showing up to life like Mary—expecting loss instead of hope? What situation in your life feels like the story is already over?
2. What have I been tempted to define myself by—my past, my failures, or my worst moment? How does the resurrection challenge that identity?
3. Where in my life does something feel final right now? What would it look like to believe that God is not finished there?
4. Am I living like Jesus barely escaped death... or like He actually defeated it? How would my daily life change if I really believed He has authority over sin, shame, and death?
5. Where has pain narrowed my vision? Is it possible that God is present and working in a place I've only been able to see through grief or disappointment?
6. Do I recognize that Jesus knows me personally and is calling me by name? What is keeping me from responding to Him right now?
7. What will I do with the resurrection? Not what do I think—but what is my next step: surrender, baptism, return to faith, or share my story with someone else?
